Fordham Law Women's first ever symposium ("Public Policy and the Gender Impact") was a collaboration with all six of Fordham Law School's journals and the 100 Years of Women at Fordham Law Committee. As the name of the symposium suggests, Fordham Law Women organized a day of highlighting legal issues that disproportionately affect women (including LGBTQ women), through the lens of each journal's specialty area. This year Fordham Law Women is hosting its second annual symposium and continuing its mission of bringing important gender and policy issues to the attention of members of the Fordham Law community.

This year's symposium is led by:

Fordham Law Women, Fordham Law Review, Intellectual Property, Media & Entertainment Law Journal, Urban Law Journal, International Law Journal, Journal of Corporate & Financial Law, Environmental Law Review
